6.3.5 – INSTITUTION’S PERFORMANCE APPRAISAL SYSTEM FOR TEACHING AND NON-TEACHING STAFF

Submitted to National Assessment and Accreditation Council 2023 – 2024

6.3.5 – Institution’s Performance Appraisal System for Teaching and Non-Teaching Staff

At Ghanshyam Singh Arya Kanya Mahavidyalaya, the performance appraisal system for teaching and non-teaching staff is designed to ensure accountability, professional growth, and institutional efficiency. The system is transparent, systematic, and aligned with institutional goals to enhance overall performance and productivity.

1. Performance Appraisal for Teaching Staff

The appraisal system for teaching staff evaluates their contribution to academics, research, and institutional development.

Key Parameters for Teaching Staff:

Teaching Effectiveness: Teaching quality is assessed through student feedback forms, classroom performance, and learning outcomes.

Research and Publications: Contribution to research activities, including publication of research papers in journals, participation in seminars, workshops, and funded research projects.

Professional Development: Participation in Faculty Development Programs (FDPs), orientation courses, refresher courses, and conferences.

Administrative Contribution: Active involvement in committees, exam duties, mentoring, and leadership roles within the institution.

Student Outcomes: Evaluation of students’ academic results and the teacher’s role in guiding and motivating learners.

Process:

Faculty members submit an annual Self-Appraisal Report highlighting their achievements, participation, and contributions.

Feedback is collected from students, peers, and Heads of Departments (HoDs).

The Principal reviews the appraisal reports and provides constructive feedback.

Based on the appraisal, decisions regarding promotions, increments, recognition, or areas of improvement are made.

2. Performance Appraisal for Non-Teaching Staff

The non-teaching staff appraisal focuses on their efficiency, skills, and contribution to the smooth functioning of the institution.

Key Parameters for Non-Teaching Staff:

Work Efficiency: Timely and accurate completion of assigned duties and responsibilities.

Technical Skills: Proficiency in operating office equipment, software, and other tools as per job requirements.

Punctuality and Discipline: Attendance records, adherence to institutional rules, and work ethics.

Administrative Support: Contribution to office management, record-keeping, assisting faculty, and supporting students.

Professional Growth: Participation in training programs and workshops to enhance skill sets.

Process:

Non-teaching staff members submit a Self-Appraisal Form annually, detailing their work performance and achievements.

Supervisors and heads of departments review their performance based on set criteria.

Constructive feedback is provided to improve efficiency and productivity.

Recommendations for increments, role adjustments, or training programs are made to help staff develop professionally.

3. Outcomes of the Appraisal System

Ensures fair evaluation and recognition of staff contributions.

Promotes professional growth through targeted training programs, workshops, and skill development.

Identifies areas for improvement and provides opportunities for corrective measures.

Facilitates decisions regarding promotions, increments, awards, or role adjustments based on performance.

Encourages staff to align their work with institutional goals, fostering a culture of excellence and accountability.

Overall The performance appraisal system at Ghanshyam Singh Arya Kanya Mahavidyalaya is a well-structured and transparent mechanism to evaluate and improve the performance of both teaching and non-teaching staff. This system plays a crucial role in maintaining academic standards, enhancing administrative efficiency, and ensuring professional development, thereby contributing to the institution's overall growth and success.
